

Routeco statement regards Covid-19 virus

release: 12.03.2020

Dear Customer,

As the Coronavirus (COVID-19) continues to spread around the world, Routeco continue to monitor the developing situation and potential impact to supply chain. This situation is of the highest concern to our business and the Management team are preparing plans for all eventualities should the situation worsen.

Routeco Limited is strongly committed to the safety of our employees and those of our suppliers & customers while we also strive to anticipate and mitigate potential risk to our customers. We are in continuous communication with our core suppliers regarding the potential impact to the supply of goods. Routeco have a very limited supply of goods that are manufactured in China or Italy. These suppliers generally have a global manufacturing footprint. However, as the impact around the world increases there may on occasions be impact on supply chain lead times, either due to the manufacturing or distribution network.

Routeco are currently preparing for associates to be able to operate away from the office to enable a continuation of business activities.

This situation remains highly dynamic. We will monitor and react to the advice of local governments and WHO and will continue to keep you updated with any changes or new developments in a timely fashion.

Please feel free to contact your local branch or account manager if you have any questions, and to cascade this email to the relevant persons in your organization.
