

Routeco statement regards Covid-19 virus release 15.06.2022

Dear Customer,

Whilst the Coronavirus (COVID-19) remains a global challenge, the risk to people has reduced and impact on people's ability to work has changed.

Local government guidelines have relaxed, but Routeco continue to monitor the situation throughout the UK and European site local areas and the potential impact to supply chain activities.

Routeco Limited is strongly committed to the safety of our employees and those of our suppliers & customers while we also strive to anticipate and mitigate potential risk to our customers. We are in continuous communication with our core suppliers regarding the potential impact to the supply of goods.

Routeco have a very limited supply of goods that are manufactured in high-risk areas. These suppliers generally have a global manufacturing footprint. However, as the situation around the world changes there may on occasions be an impact on supply chain lead times, either due to the manufacturing or distribution network.

Routeco have more staff working from the office but continue to offer flexible home working. Logistics staff continue to operate within the CDC and the Service Centres.

There are no mandatory Covid processes in place, but Routeco offer staff and visitors access to LFT tests whilst stocks are available and non-contact temperature checking.

Any Routeco staff attending a customer/supplier site will adhere to any specific Covid-19 safety measures that are in place.

We will continue to monitor the dynamic situation and react to the advice of local governments and WHO and will continue to keep you updated with any changes or new development.

Please feel free to contact your local Service Centre, Account Manager or the undersigned if you have any questions, and to cascade this email to the relevant persons in your organization.

Darren Lack

Supply Chain Director – Routeco Group